

THE MAN BEHIND THE TALC STORY

Mr. Bill Henderson, the electron microscopist at the Tenovus Institute for Cancer Research, has developed a revolutionary technique for identifying and isolating dangerous (such as asbestos) or foreign particles in human tissue. The new process gives a much more accurate identification than methods used previously and will benefit scientists all over the world. It was during a search for asbestos using his new method that Mr. Henderson discovered talc in 75 per cent of the ovarian tumours examined. It is not yet known if the presence of talc is harmful.
